police, maintained order in the depot. The Captain, by lining up his men, kept a path open through which the residential party could pass when it arrived.

The Steamboat Muir was waiting at the Adams Express Company's pler, north of the depot, to receive President Harrison and the other guests and to take them direct to the steamship New York.

The wilk from the depot to the pler was covered three inches deep with sawdust, so that the guests might be able to reach the boat dry shod.

Reception Committee's Long Wait.

The Reception Committee to meet President Harrison comprised thirty officers of the New York and Philadelphia battalions of the Naval Reserve, with Commander J. W. Miller, of the New York Hattalion, as Chairman, and Lieut. Kent, of New York, and Lieut.-Commander Wright, of Philadelphia, next in command.

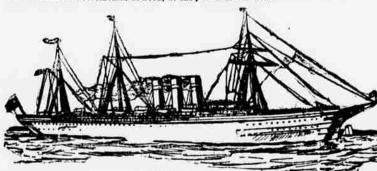

mander Wright, of Philadelphia, next in command.

The Committee had an escort of twenty-two men from the New York battallon and thirty from the Philadelphia batallion.

Nearly every prominent official of the Pennsylvania Ratiroad was present in the crowd awaiting the President's arrival. In the waiting throng, too, were Secretary of the Navy Tracy and Secretary of War Elkins. Henry George and United States Marshal Jacobus were also waiting to accompany the party to New York.

It was expected that the Presidential party would comprise, beside President Harrison, Secretary of State Poster and Fostmaster-General Wabamaker. The other members of the Cabinet were not expected.

Arrival of Philadelphia Notabilities.

At 12.30 General Supt. Jackson, of the Pennsylvania Raliroad, told an "Evening World" reporter that the first section of the special train carrying the President and some of his Cabinet had been delayed over an hour by an accident to another train near Philadelphia.

"The President's train," said Mr. Jackson, "will not reach Jersey City before 1.30, and it nay be late."

President Harrison Delayed.

President Harrison Belayed.

President Harrison and his party were expected to arrive from Washington at 11.30 over the Pennsylvania Raliroad, but owing to a delay to the President's train there was a hitch in the proceedings.

A despatch from Washington this morning said: "The President undeterred by the inclement incidents of show and ice, which threatened to make travel difficult, rose by gaslight this morning and took a special train for New York, awaiting him at the Pennsylvania Raliroad station at 7 o'clock.

"Secretary Rikins and some others of the invited guests had wisely sone anead yesterday. The unravorable weather, the prolonged session of Congress the night before, and the eccentricity which apparently governed the issue of invitations, combined to make the special party less numerous and representative than was expected."

The Steamship Companies' Guests.

At 10.30 o'clock the steamboats Howard Carroll and Sam Sloan pushed their way through the ice that lined the New York shore of the North River and tied up at the New York's pier.

At 11.30 the steamship companies' guests came in large humbers and went on board the steamboats, which at 12 o'clock cast off their lawsers and dropped down the stream. LONDON. Feb. 22.—Hilton Barker, one of the principal members of the firm of G Barker & Co., late of 52 Mark lane, which failed on the 22d of June last, committed suicide to-day in a railway carriage near Puthey.

The failure created much excitement, being for the sum of $3,250,000. It affected a host of thrifty persons throughout the country, who were induced to deposit money with the firm by the exceptionally high rate of interest offered, the average rate promised being 7 per cent.

As organs of its banking business the firm conducted three papers—the "Daily Oracle," "Weekly Oracle" and "Weekly Trade and Finance." It also ran a money-lending concern, a grocery shop and a public house.

The official receiver in bankruptcy ascertained on investigation facts which led to the principal members of the firm and responsible for its management. They are accused of fraud, and the Treasury undertook their prosecution.

Hilton Barker has been very much depressed since the failure, and this depression was greatly increased by his arrest. He appeared to consider that the authorities were dealing harehly with him, and always claimed that his intentions had been honest, and that he was simply unfortunite.
